

Leadership Development

at the Centre for Christian Studies

- What kind of leader are you? -

'I've been in ministry for a few years now. I want to deepen my skills, learn new approaches and perspectives to pastoral care, education, and social justice. I want to keep growing.'

The LDM is for you! The Leadership Development Module is a great continuing education opportunity. Grounded in an action-reflection model of learning, it can go as deep as you want to take it.

'My church is asking me to step into a leadership role, but I'm a little nervous. How am I supposed to help a group function? How can I encourage, inspire, and empower? What should I do if there's conflict??'

The LDM is for you! The Leadership Development Module is a practical introduction to group facilitation, group planning processes, and conflict resolution. There's lots of work in teams, so you get to integrate your skills and challenge yourself.

'I feel called to diaconal ministry. I want to learn something about the history of deacons and deaconesses, and start developing my own approach to ministry in the world, ministry on the edges.'

The LDM is for you! The Leadership Development Module can be taken as a stand-alone course, but it's also the first step in CCS's diaconal training program and a great way to find out what the Centre for Christian Studies is all about.

'I don't know what kind of leader I am. ... Should I know?'

The LDM is for you! Self-knowledge is key to effective leadership, and the Leadership Development Module helps with tools for understanding your individual learning style, personality type, and leadership approach.

Two opportunities in 2013!

The Leadership Development Module is a 2-week intensive course. In 2013 the LDM will be held:

June 10-22 at Woodsworth House in Winnipeg.

August 12-24 at St. Paul University in Ottawa.

Cost: $1400 tuition (does not include cost of travel, food, accommodations, or $55 application fee)

We've been training people for leadership in the church and ministry in the world since before you were born.

For more information, visit <http://ccsonline.ca/program/leadership-development/>
or phone 204-783-4490